Reflections . . .
 The reds and golds of autumn
 And the soft springtime greens
 Float on the face of the pond,
 Sunlight skids across the hallways
 Or criss-crosses the foyer
 In ribbons of white,
 Row upon row
 Of sparkling glass
 Throw off darts of searing light,
 Illuminating the labs
 With their special glow,
 Long, lacey shadows
 Spread ebony patterns
 Against the snow
 Like gossamer webs,
 Elusive raindrops
 Capture the sun
 In shifting bands of color
 That dance on the silver
 Of the rain-puddle mirrors,
 And a year woven with memories
 Is caught in the reflection
 Of time.

Every sound,
 Every feeling,
 Every event
 Is reflected in the mirror
 Of our lives.
 The sounds of being together—
 The deafening roar
 That accompanies
 An intermural victory,
 The clatter of
 Lockers slamming,
 Books dropping,
 Doors closing,
 And the buzz
 Of early morning conversations
 Blend forever with
 The sounds of solitude—
 The quiet hush
 Of study,
 The thoughtful silences
 That wash
 Over the days of retreat
 Or the crackling crispness
 Of a walk alone
 Through the diamond-white
 World of winter.
 And from the long corridors
 Of time will come
 The echoes
 Of these sounds,
 These days at Beaumont.

Wherever we go,
 Whatever we do,
 A part of us
 Will belong here,
 To the things we did,
 And the people we met,
 And the place we knew.
 As all the todays
 Melt into tomorrow
 And the prism of time
 Flashes memories
 In gold and silver
 Upon the shadows
 Of the years,
 This time at Beaumont
 Will crystallize
 Into bright, shining reflections,
 Reflections that will last forever.

The Spirit Of '68 — Dedication

Sister Mary Fabian, O.S.U., Principal

The faculty of Beaumont reflects the highest ideals in Christian education—honesty, dedication and a genuine concern for the student that goes beyond the purely intellectual level to the personal one. There is a spirit of deep, individual commitment among the members of the faculty and this is mirrored in their actions. A Beaumont teacher always has the time to laugh with a freshman over the antics of Initiation, console the sophomore laden with homework, join the junior in admiring her new class ring or discuss with a senior the important decisions ahead. It is this empathy, this personal communication and exchange of ideas and feelings that is the essence of Ursuline education. In the years to come, as the goals of Beaumont education are realized and reflected in us, we will be better equipped to assume our separate roles in the fast-moving and ever-changing society that is ours.

The time that Sr. Berenice spent here with us at Beaumont was all too short, yet in those few months she earned for herself a very special place among us, not only as a sociology teacher, but as someone who loved life and lived it to the fullest. The old cliché about being "young at heart" certainly applied to her. She met each new day, each new situation with the eagerness and candor of youth itself.

CURRICULUM

A Mod-

Seniors demonstrate the techniques of modern staging.

An education to be complete, must elevate the entire person. Beaumont, seeking to offer such an education, plans a wide variety of courses. Modular scheduling and new courses introduced this year, such as Mathematical Analysis, History of the Far East, and honors courses in English, presented even wider opportunities for personal development. Colorful class activities varied the customary levels of work. Both aspects reflected the depth of study put forth by students and faculty.

Freshman scholars keep Latin alive.

Sr. John Joseph's Physics class simplifies wave phenomena with a slinky.

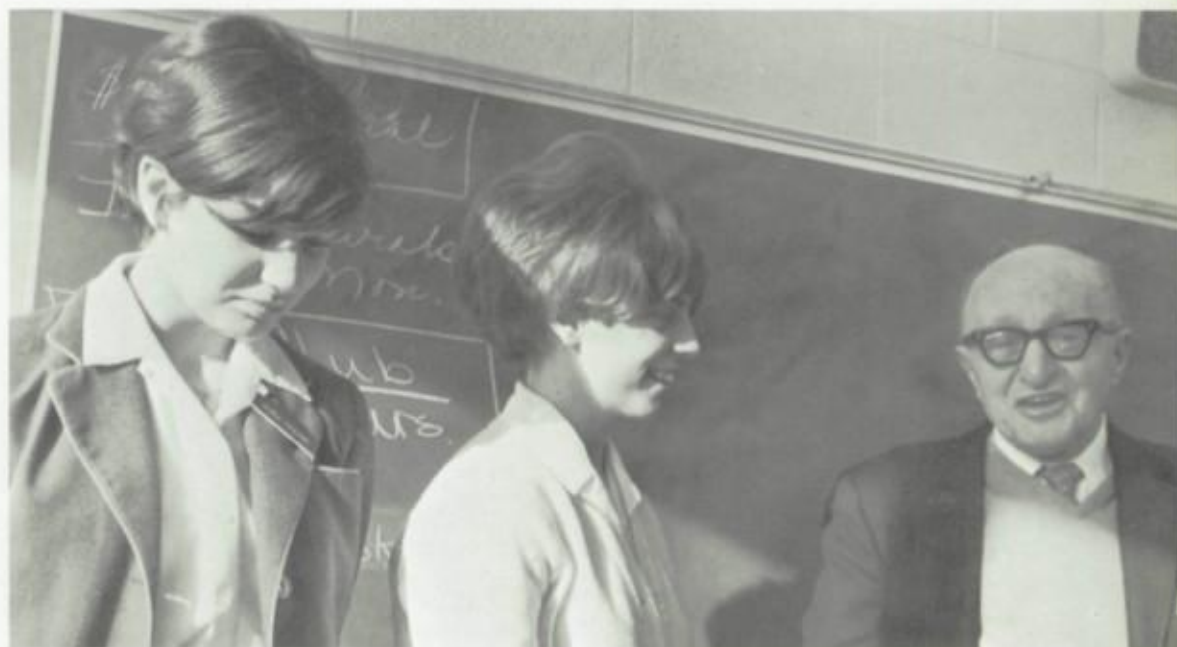

Learn Year

Mary helps prepare Beaumont's art exhibit.

Physical Science classes experiment with the properties of water.

Mr. Howard Wertheimer, theater critic for WERE radio, makes senior drama study meaningful through personal experience.

ORGANIZATIONS

Student Council: Accent On Action

Martha finds the grey beret as the Seniors "Discover Beaumont!"

Moderator Sr. Lucille, president Pat Mulholland, and secretary Chris DeVinne preside over a general meeting of the Student Council.

Endless rows of clean? saddle shoes await St. Nicholas.

From the Community Assembly to the May Crowning, the Student Council hummed with activity. Pat and Chris worked with Sister Lucille to spread community spirit throughout the campus through such projects as Discover Beaumont Week and the Miss Smile Contest. The spirit of the officers and representatives was contagious and soon the halls resounded with the students' enthusiasm.

People, Places, And Politics

J.C.W.A. OFFICERS—Sue Horrigan, Mary Jo Peebles, Kathy DePalma, and Mary Weiss

It wasn't necessary to travel to Washington to sense the excitement of national or world affairs in the air—any meeting of the Junior Council on World Affairs offered just as much political intrigue as a meeting of Congress. Working under the premise that today's youth are tomorrow's leaders, Mrs. Plent and the four student chairmen planned a full calendar of events for 1968 that included, among other things, a model United Nations, a mock mayoral election, and a guest speaker from India.

FARADA SOLEJO,
the guest speaker from India.

The affairs of the world are discussed in a smoke-filled? room.

The Light Of Leadership

At the National Honor Society induction ceremony, four candles blazed in the shadows of the darkened stage, each flame representing one of the four principles to which the Society is dedicated—leadership, scholarship, character and service. This year the accent was on leadership. Barb Tomc, President of the Senior Class at Ursuline College, and Sue Seeman, President of the Student Government, spoke of the challenge of leadership in today's society and the need to cultivate those qualities that mark a leader.

National Honor Society officers—Sara Adams, Donna Snider, Kathy Ferenbach, and Cathy Coburn.

Senior members sing out about brotherhood and love.

Sharon Dail and Pia work together on a story.

The Junior members of the staff learn their trade.

Beaumont's answer to Louis B. Seltzer.

A typical scene around Beaumont this year was a reporter, pencil poised and blazer flying, dashing off in hot pursuit of a story. The cause for this flurry of activity was Beaumont's newspaper, the WALL SCHOOL JOURNAL.

With Sr. Nathaniel as advisor and Mary Mullin as editor, the paper swung into its second year of publication, featuring not only news articles but literary contributions from members of all four classes.

"Let me see those instructions again."

The Biology section of the Beaumont Academy of Science, led by Sr. Ursula, studies a chick embryo.

Science Inquires

The Beaumont Academy of Sciences provided the sometimes frustrated chemists and biologists with a chance to test their theories and develop their "experimental" knowledge. Elected officers Marilyn Porkorny and Patricia Pugsley felt that club activities should not be confined to only scientific achievement in the laboratory. One of the biggest projects of the Academy this year was the February field trip to Nela Park, the Lighting Institute.

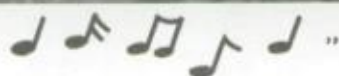

Sr. John Joseph and the Physical Science section "measure up."

Glee Club Takes On A New Look

"Shhh ...

Under the direction of a new moderator, Sr. Agnes Marie, and the newly introduced student conductors, the '68 Glee Club once again showed the school that there is magic in music. All of the frantic memorizing, harmonizing, and rehearsing culminated in a December concert that brought added joy to the Christmas season, and later, in a May concert that ushered in spring with a song.

Of course, the activities of the Glee Club were not confined to these concerts. The members performed at Cleveland State Hospital and the senior members bid their last good-bye at the Skating club as they sang for the alumnae and for the Class of '68.

"Spring is a Song."

Cadets Take the Challenge

New projects under the new moderator, Sister Alicia, changed the face of this year's Cadet Club. Encouraging school spirit, the cadets organized and refereed intermural games in volleyball and basketball. The volleyball championship was won by senior homeroom 103 and seniors battled the sophomores for the top basketball award.

In a November basketball game, our cadet team was the victorious host to Regina High School gym leaders. Later in the year the cadets matched skills with the faculty in a volleyball game, and the "best" team won.

"Hey Nancy, get that ball!"

A Harmony Of Spirit

The members of the Catholic Youth Adoration have found that the hope of peace among nations lies in the reality of unity among individuals. In a desire to foster this unity here at Beaumont, the girls join once a month in offering a Holy Hour of prayer and petition. Many of the recent liturgical changes were utilized to encourage a more personal atmosphere and a more meaningful participation. The highlight of the year was a trip to Villa Angela Academy to participate in a holy hour there.

C.Y.A. officers—secretary Ginny Monroe, president Kathy Wood, and treasurer Mary Ann Tomc.

Beaumont's new Catholic Action group, the Sodality, formed this year under the direction of Sr. Jane Catherine. Through various projects, the members worked to become more sincere in their Christianity.

eible Captivates Cast And Crowd

The stars shone brightly at Beaumont this year when the Drama Club proudly presented The Crucible by Arthur Miller. Michelle Spetrino and Benedictine's Bob Seemann landed the major roles, and backed by Connie Cistone and Mary Jo Peebles, presented their view of Puritan life. Sister Merida, the moderator of the club, acted as the director. Another success crowned the second year of the Drama Club.

Sophomores hang their favorite books on the Library Christmas tree.

This year the Library Club, moderated by Mrs. Wm. Mc-Millan, planned a variety of projects to make the library an inviting place for students. Their guest speaker, in December, Miss Bayles, gave an informative talk on Christmas traditions in literature. The library Christmas tree was also an important part of the Beaumont holiday spirit. In March, a bake sale was a successful project to raise money for the purchase of new books.

Speech And Debate '68 Style

Pat Rowe and Mary Ann Flynn represent Beaumont at a model debate against Mayfield High School.

Debate Club officers—treasurer Pat Rowe, secretary June Kacion, and president Sue Horrigan.

With moderator Miss Margaret Sonnhalter, the Speech and Debate Club this year presented a contrast between new and old activities. For the first time a model debate was staged for the student body, with the Beaumont team victorious over visiting debaters from Mayfield High School. Continuing an already established project, varsity debaters coached beginners in practice for their competitive tourneys. During the tournament season students took full advantage of opportunities for city and state competition, using many of their free hours for the necessary preparation and presentation of material.

Parents-Alumnae Stir Spirit

The Mothers' Guild, Fathers' Club and Alumnae Association all share the same belief that the parents and former students have a definite role in the development of the school. The product of this belief is an enthusiasm that is responsible for such events as the Communion Breakfasts, Career Night and the Cadillac Raffle. These projects serve many purposes—to provide Beaumont with additional educational facilities, to promote an atmosphere of open, friendly communication among the students, faculty and parents and to help all to assume an active role in the service of the Church and of the community.

Candy, Carnivals, And Charity

Fr. Wohl looks pleased after being presented with a check for the Martin De Porres Center.

Sweetness, cleanliness, and an atmosphere of outstanding co-operation were the success stories of the Mission Club this year. The club, moderated by Sr. Bernadine, undertook such projects as the candy apple sale, the preparation of the Thanksgiving baskets, and during the holidays, the sale of the Tootsie Roll banks. With hopes of making a clean sweep, the club sponsored a soap and paper drive for the Martin De Porres Center, then followed up with a car wash. Tradition was again upheld when Kathy Vaughn, president, organized the annual farewell—the Mission Club Carnival.

RED CROSS CLUB OFFICERS—president, Kay Kealy, Corresponding secretary, Maureen McCrea, and recording secretary, Anne Simoson.

Members set off for the psychiatric ward.

The Red Cross Story

Running . . . laughing . . . giving . . . helping . . . living—words of the Red Cross Club. And to these few words, the girls of the club added a lot of actions to make a complete story—for themselves and for others. The story began with just a phrase here and there, "Cleveland State Hospital" and "Psychiatric Ward." To these the members added a few more, like "Par-madale" and "Sunny Acres" until whole sentences began happening—and at all times of the year. The members made Thanksgiving favors, Christmas decorations, Valentine placemats, and dyed Easter eggs. In between these, they stuck a few more sentences by sending crossword puzzles to the boys in Vietnam, having a clothing drive for the patients at State Hospital, and attending Council meetings.

Their sentences fell into place until they formed a complete story, telling of the giving and getting of happiness of the Red Cross Club.

Junior Ring Ceremony

"With this ring ..."

The long anticipated day had arrived for the Juniors—during the ceremony each girl would receive the Beaumont ring. Before distribution of the rings, president Mary Beth Zablony spoke to her classmates concerning the Beaumont coat-of-arms. Filing out into the rows, each girl went up to receive her remembrance from Seniors Anne and Pat. The instant reactions were happiness and pride. Afterwards the girls celebrated with a cake that the Seniors presented to the Junior Class.

We knew you were coming, so we baked a cake.

Junior-Senior Banquet

After prophecies, a delicious chicken and roast beef dinner, and an address by Father Maynard, the senior class recites its parodies.

THE CLASS OF 1968

FRESHMAN YEAR—

With our saddle shoes shining and our skirts freshly pleated and hanging below our knees, we mounted the steps and found ourselves in the land of no return—homerooms 201 to 209. From September to November we perfected the fine arts of duck-walking and bib-wearing in anticipation of It-Initiation Week. After living through white anklets, buttoned blazers and crazy hats, we decided that we could live through anything.

November also brought the Freshman Dance with its Gleesome Threesome—Daddy, Daughter and Date. The scene of that dance, Sacred Heart Hall, saw another freshman event, the costume party headlined by the frosh's famous rendition of "Ragdmopp."

A picnic, complete with spilled food, ants and our farewell songs to the seniors climaxed our Year of Initiation.

SOPHOMORE YEAR—

Our shoes were not quite so spic and span and our skirts began to show some signs of wear, but we were sophomores and no one dared to call us "frosh." We watched the new class of freshmen coming in and assured ourselves that we certainly hadn't been like that when we were freshmen. But we didn't spend too much time worrying about the fates of the other classes. After all, we had problems of our own—like geometry and trying to figure out the difference between a triangle and a square.

Sophomore year was the year we discovered that we had talent. First we proved this in The Romance of the Willow Pattern and later in the Talent Show and Mission Hootenanny.

JUNIOR YEAR—

Then, with all of the dignity that we could muster, we rose to the ranks of upperclassmen. It was a whole new life for us—now we could eat on the other side of the dining room and we didn't have to climb 14 steps to get to our homerooms. We tackled chemistry and almost set science back 200 years.

We also tackled the Junior Talent Show and proved to the school what we had known all along—the Class of '68 was great.

Junior year was the time of rings, the Legend of Sleepy Hollow and le Chanson des Fleurs.

SENIOR YEAR—

Well, we were seniors and that meant that we could drive to school and leave the gym first while "the rest of the student body remained seated." We were introduced to the fun of term papers and we soon learned to burn the midnight oil (and the one o'clock oil and the two o'clock oil and ...). In biology we made pets of all of our frogs, worms, etc. and endowed them with very distinctive names, such as Philbert the Phrog. We discovered Beaumont and the grey beret (at seven o'clock in the morning). We also discovered that all it took from the Action Class was a little team spirit and we could lead the school in everything from intermurals to the magazine drive.

The foyer was transformed by green boughs and red bows into a winter wonderland where we all celebrated an Old Fashioned Christmas. In that same foyer we held our senior prom—the last dance of the Class of '68. It was quite a change from Sacred Heart Hall, but, then, we had changed, too.

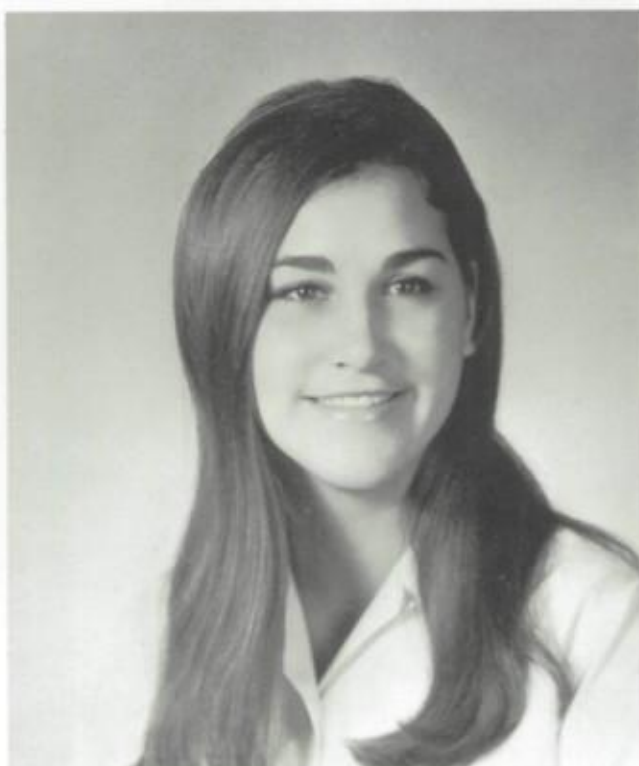

The four years that we had spent together had been years of laughter and sometimes tears, of noisy crowds and of peaceful solitude, of growth, of giving and learning to care. From the bright, shining reflections of these things will come our memories.

The list of people to whom we owe our thanks is a long and varied one. It includes all of the students and faculty, especially Sister Fabian and Sister Marie Michelle, who provided us with their support and encouragement, two very essential ingredients in a yearbook. Without them there would have been no Parapet '68.

We also owe a very special thanks to Sister Brenda. She managed to find a smile for every occasion and a solution for every crisis. Working on the Parapet was made that much more rewarding because she was a part of it.

Mr. Jerry Elmore, our Taylor Yearbook representative, gave us assistance whenever we needed it and we are indebted to him for his patience in coping with our whims and problems.

Another person who deserves our appreciation is Ginny Bissel, who had to contend with some of our more unique attempts in the field of photography.

We would also like to thank Sister Nathaniel and Sister Ursula for their interest in Parapet '68. As veteran yearbook moderators their advice in everything from lay-outs to photography was invaluable to us.

And, of course, we could not forget our mascot Terry Brown, the Andy Williams record that lives in our radiator or Buddha, who gave us inspiration and a lot of laughs.
